Ananova :

Acting is no big deal, says Vanessa Mae

Vanessa Mae says that acting is not such a big deal after finishing her first film.

"Acting isn't as demanding as I imagined," the violinist told the German television magazine 'TV Today'.

She added that she had enjoyed her role as Princess Zobeide in the two-part fantasy film, Arabian Nights - Adventures from 1001 Nights.

"As a small girl I dreamed of being a princess one day," she said: "This was a great opportunity to become one."

But she maintains she will not hang up her violin for film, claiming that she had practised every day during the shoot.
